The Proprietors to the Public.

IN E here present you with our Second Year's Publication, under a just Impression of your very liberal Patronage The Stamp of your Aptrobation has ranked it as the most novel, systematic and comprehensive of the Kind; and the Interest which we naturally feel in preserving this good Opinion has led us to increased Exertion to merit and preserve it. We have, therefore, added a complete View of the Ecclefiastical Establishment of this Kingdom, provincial, diocesan and parochial; the Course of Education, &c. in our University; the several Schools or Academies; with many new Foundations or public Institutions. For the Use of Politicians, at this interesting Crisis, we have given Tables, Shewing, in opposite Columns, the corresponding Days of our Calendar with those of the profent French Style, to abviate the Confusion of Dates in foreign Intelligence; -and a Variety of other Matter, of which the differning Reader will eafily appreciate the Value, and which have fo far extended our Book, that it contains near two hundred Pages of small Print more than any other Almanack published in Ireland, and the Price is continued the same as in the former Year.

Tity and Country Talendar:

Or, Irish Court Registry.

IRELAND is a separate independent Kingdom, whose Constitution is perfectly similar to that of Great-Britain. Ireland is governed by two Powers.

I. The Legislative Power.—Book I. II. The Executive Power.—Book II.

OOK I.

THE LEGISLATIVE POWER.

The Legislative Power is lodged in three different Branches, which must all concur in every A& of Legislation, and are falutary checks on the separate branches, that neither should prevail, or have undue influence on the others : These branches are,

I. The King.

II. The Lords of Parliament, (for there are Peers who are not Lords of Parliament, as Roman Catholics and Minors, who, as such, have no Seat in the House of Lords; and there are Lords of Parliament who are not Peers, as the Archbishops and Bishops.)

III. The Commons, or the Representatives of the People, elected and delegated by them.

Each of these branches has certain Rights; those of the King are called PREROGATIVES, and those of the Lords and Commons are flyled PRIVILEGES.

The Prerogatives of the King (as a branch of the Legislature) are these,

1. The King alone has the power of convoking the Parliament, and fixing the time of its place and meeting, which is done by writs issued out of the High Court of Chancery, at least forty days before it is to fit.

4. The.

2. The power to prorogue the Parliament.
3. The power to diffolive the Parliament. [1795.]

4. The power to affent to, or diffent from any Bill passed by the Lords and Commons, but he cannot alter it.

5. The power to originate a Bill; but that can be only an act of Grace or Pardon, which is fent down to the Lords, who can give it but one reading, and must either agree to it in the form sent down, without any alteration, or reject it; and such act is in the same predicament in the House of Commons.

6. The power of fuing a Lord of Parliament or a Member of the House of Commons for his debt during the sitting of Parliament-but he cannot arrest the person.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

The Executive Power of Government is exercised by the King, and those to whom he delegates any part of his power, which is either Ecclesiastical, Civil or Military.

The Prerogatives of the King, as the Executive Power, are these.

1. As Head of the Established Church of Ireland, the King has the prerogative of convening, proroguing, restraining, regulating and dissolving all Ecclesiastical Synods, or Convocations.

Of nomination to all vacant Archbishopricks, Bishopricks, and certain other Ecclefiastical preferments; and

Of being the last resort in all Ecclesiastical causes: for an appeal lies ultimately to the King, in Chancery, from the sentence of every Ecclesiastical Judge.

2. As the fountain and diffributor of Justice, and general Conservator of the peace of the Kingdom, the King has the prerogative of

1. Erecting Courts of Justice.

2. Of nominating Judges (but he cannot remove them unless on an address of both Houses of Parliament.)

3. Of being the general profecutor, (by his Attorney General) of all public offences and breaches of the peace, as is so laid in every indictment.

4. Of issuing Proclamations, for the execution of any known

Law.

5. Of being the fountain of Honour.

6. The establishing public Marts, or places of buying and felling, and of Fairs, for the same purpose.

7. The regulation of Weights and Measures.

8. The Coining, and afcertaining the value of Money.

9. The receipt of the public Revenue, and the expenditure thereof-according to Acts of Parliament.

And the King, considered as the Representative of the whole Nation, has the prerogative of sending and receiving Ambassadors—Making treaties—Declaring war—Granting Letters of Reprisal and Marque—Granting safe conduct, and opening and establishing Ports and Havens.

The King confidered as the FOUNTAIN OF HONOUR.

Besides the Royal Prerogatives in the King's Legislative and Executive capacity, there is another distinct from both, namely that of being the Fountain of Honour, as he has the prerogative of rewarding merit in an extraordinary manner.

Honours are Hereditary or Personal. Hereditary Honours are the Peerage, the Baronetage.

Which honours descend to the sons or relatives of the posessons, according to the provisions in the patent of conferring; and this is called Greation, because it is bringing into being that which did not exist before, in the person or family.

The Hereditary Honours are Six, viz. the Dignity of

DUKE,
MARQUESS,
EARLA,
VISCOUNT,
BARON, and BARONET.

A Duke is created by Patent, Cincture of Sword, Mantle of tate, imposition of a Cap and Coronet of Gold on his Head, and Verge of Gold put into his Hand-though sometimes the eremonial parts are omitted, and the delivery of the Patent uffices for the Creation; and then the Peer is introduced in is Robes of State to the House of Lords. This is the case So in every inferior degree, where the Peer is a Lord of Parament; but this cannot be done with Females, nor Peers by escent who are minors, till they come of age; nor with those eers by descent, who, although their ancestors may have ken their feats, yet by professing the Catholic Religion refuse take the oaths prescribed by law. But all these enjoy every rivilege of Peerage except the feat in the Legislature—The eer is girt with a Sword, to put him in mind that he is bound to estend the King and Kingdom in time of war; and his Head adorned with a Coronet of Gold, as a token that he is a Counfellor

Counsellor to the King and Kingdom in time of peace. A Duke's Coronet has Strawberry leaves fet round the circle of gold; and his Mantle, or Robe of State, has four Gards faced with ermine—He is called his Grace, a title given to the Kings of England and Ireland before they affumed that of Majesty. A Duke's eldest son is stiled (by courtesy) Lord Marquess, and his younger sons have Lord prefixed to their christian names—and all his daughters are Ladies.

A Marquess and Earl are created as a Duke, with these differences in their Coronets : The Marquess has a pearl and a ftrawberry leaf, alternately, of equal heights; and an Earl has no leaves, but the pearls are raised on points. Their Mantles of State, or Robes, are also faced with ermine; but; Marquess's Mantle hath but three Gards and an half, and an Earl's but three.—All the fons and daughters of a Marquels are stiled (by courtesey) Lords and Ladies; and as a Duke's eldest fon is stiled a Marquess, so an Earl's bears that of Viscount; the younger sons are only Esquires, with the addition of the bonoureble, although all the daughters are Ladies.

Viscounts and Barons are made by Patent; though Barons are formetimes called to Parliament by writ of fummons. A Viscount's Coronet has a circle of Pearls close to the rim, and Baron's has only fix Pearls on the circle.—Their Mantles are both faced with plain white fur. None of their fons bear the title of Lord, nor any of their daughters that of Lady, but are called Honourable. And the eldest son of the eldest Viscount is deemed the first gentleman in the kingdom without a title.

The Privileges of Peers are twofold.

1. As Peers of the Realm. 2. As Lords of Parliament.

The Privileges of PEERs in general are,

They are free from all arrefts for debts, as being the King's hereditary counsellers. A Peer therefore cannot be outlawed in any civil action, and no attachment lies against his person; but execution may be taken on his lands and goods -they are free from all attendance at Court Leets and Sheriff! Turns, or from attending the service of Posse Comitatus.

In criminal cases they are tried only by their Peers, who give in their verdict, not upon oath, as other juries, but only upon their Honour.

To fecure the honour, and prevent the spreading of any Scandal upon Peers by reports, there is an express law, called

The Privileges of LORDS in Parliament are,

1. The privilege of voting by proxy, if they are absent.

2. The privilege of entering on the Journals of the House of Lords a protest against any vote, or bill passed therein.

3. In coming to or going from Parliament, if a Lord passes hrough any of the King's forests, he has the privilege of kill-ng one or two of the King's deer.

N. B. All bills affecting the rights of the Peerage are to origiate in the House of Lords, and are not alterable by the Commons —All bills that do not tax or raise money on the subject may oriinate in the House of Lords.

The privileges of the COMMONS, or Representatives of the People, are,

1. The freedom of speech in their House; for no Commoner an be questioned out of the House for any thing he may say in he House of Commons.

2. The privilege of being free from arrefts, in their persons, not only during the sitting of Parliament, but for sorty days after each prorogation, and forty days before the next appointed meeting—But any member of Parliament who is a Trader, may, notwithstanding his privilege, be served with legal process for any just debt (to the amount of tool.) and unless he makes satisfaction within two months it seemed an act of bankruptcy, and a commission of bankruptcy may be issued.

3. Access to the King; for every Commoner can ask and btain a private audience of the King in his closet, on any important busmess.

4. The franking of letters.

(The last two belong to the Lords also.)

The privileges of the Parliament, or whole Legislative body united, are these,

1. The power of making, confirming, enlarging, restraining, abrogating, repealing, reviving and expounding of laws, concerning matters of all possible denominations, ecclesiastical or temporal, civil, military, maritime or criminal.

2. The power of regulating or new-modelling the fuccession to the Crown, as was done in the reigns of Henry VIII.

William III. and Queen Anne.

3. The

3. The power of altering the Established Religion of the land, as under Henry VIII. Edward VI. Mary I. and Elizabeth.

4. The power of changing the Constitution of Parliaments themselves—as in the several acts for triennial and septennial Elections in England, and the octennial act in this kingdom. In short Parliament can do every thing that is not naturally impossible.

N.B. The House of Lords is the highest Court of Judicature, to which appeals may be made from all other Courts; and the House of Commons is the grand Inquest of the Nation.—Also each House is the guardian of its own privileges, and can punish every breach of them, done either by its own Members or any other person.

As the subjects are bound to the King in legal allegiance, so is the sovereign equally bound to the people, for the law lays it down as a principle "that the king must rule his people accord—"ing to the decrees of the law of the Realm: insomuch that "he is bound by an OATH at his Coronation to the observance "and keeping of his own laws." this oath ran in these words in the Reign of Edward IV.

" Ceo est le serement que le roy jeure a soun coronement.

"Que il gardera et meintenera lez droitez et lez franchisez de foynt esglise grauntez anciennement, dez droitez roys christiens de Engletere, et qui il gardera toutez sez terrez honoures et dignitées droiturelz et franks del coron du roialme d'Engletere en tout maner dertiente sanz null maner demenusement, et lez droitez dispergez dilapidez ou perduz de la corone a soun poiair reappeller en launcien estate, et qu'il gardera le peas de seynt esglise et al clergie et al people de bon accorde, et qu'il face saire sez judgmentez ouvel et droit justice oue discrecion et misericorde, et qu'il grauntera a tenure lez leyes et custumez du roialme, et a soun poiair lez sace garder et affermer que lez gentez du people avont faitez et essiez, et lez malveys leyz et custumes de tout oustera, et ferme peas et establie al people de soun roialme en ceo garde esgardera a soun poiair, come dieu luy aide."

[As this oath is written in the old Norman French, which, from its difference from the present French language, may not be easily understood by many persons, a litteral translation is here given.

This is the Oath that the King fwears at his crowning.

That he will keep and maintain the rights and the franchifes of Holy Church, anciently granted by the right christian Kings of England; and that he will keep all his lands, honours and dignities, rightly and free of the Crown of the kingdom of England in all manner of holding, without any manner of diminution, and the rights, dispersed, destroyed or lost of the Crown, to his utmost power will recall to their ancient condition; that he will keep the peace of Holy Church, and to the Clergy, and to the People with good will; and that he will cause his judgment to be made on right justice or discretion and mercy; and that he will grant to hold the laws and customs of the realm, and to his power will make them to keep and confirm what the gentry of the people (i. e. the representatives) have made and chosen, and the evil laws and customs from every where turn away, and the firm peace established to the people of his realm under his keeping shall guard to his power. So help him God.]

This ancient coronation Oath, though sometimes varied in torm, fully demonstrated a political or civil MONARCHY. But to obviate all doubts and difficulties concerning this matter it is expreisly declared, by the statute of the 12th and 13th of William III. that "the laws are the birthright of the people; " and all the Kings and Queens who shall ascend the throne of "this realm ought to administer the Government of the same " according to the faid laws; and all Officers and Ministers ought " to serve them respectfully according to the same; and there-" fore all the laws and statutes of this realm for securing the " established religion and the rights and liberties of the people " thereof, and all other laws and statutes of the same now in force, are, by his majesty, by and with the advice and con-" fent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, and, "by the authority of the same, ratified and confirmed accord-" ingly." The coronation Oath at present taking by the King was enacted I William and Mary, flatute I. chapter 6. in this manner'.

The Archbishop says, Will you folemnly promise and swear to govern the people of this Kingdom of England (in which Oath the Kingdom of IRELAND is included) and the dominions thereunto belonging, according to the statutes in Parliament agreed on, and the laws and customs of the same?

The King fays, I folemnly promise so to do.

The Archbishop, Will you to your power cause law and justice in mercy to be executed in all your judgments?

The King, I will.

Archbishop, Will you to the utmost of your power maintain the laws of God, the true profession of the Gospel, and the protestant reformed Religion established by the law? And will you preferve to the Bishops and Clergy of this realm and to the Churches committed to their charge all such rights and privileges as by law do, and shall appertain unto them, or any of them?

The King, All this I promise to do.

Thou the King, laying his hand upon the Holy Gospels, says, the things which I have here before promised, I will perform and keep. So help me God. And then kisses the Book.

As the King resides in England his Majesty is constantly reresented in Ireland by a Lord Lieutenant or Lords Justices, to whom his prerogatives and legislative power are in part deegated. The person who now enjoys that dignity is

His Excellency exercises the Legislative Authority, as the Royal Branch, by convoking and proroguing the Parliament, and declaring the Royal Assent to such Bills as the King approves, for which purpose a Special Commission is occasionally ent over.

To affift the King in the exercise of his Constitutional Powrs, both Legislative and Executive, he has a Council, called

The Privy Council.

The Members of this Privy Council are made such by the King's nomination, without Patent or Grant: on taking the path they immediately become Privy Counsellors during the life of the King, but subject to removal at his discretion. They take the Oath for the security of the Constitution, and Test for the security of the Church. The duty of a Privy Counsellor may be known from the oath he takes, which is in these words:

"I will advise the King to the best of my cunning and discretion. I will advise for the King's honour, and good of the public, without partiality, through affection, love, meed, doubt, or dread. I will keep the King's Counsel strict. I will avoid corruption. I will help and strengthen the execution of what shall be there resolved, and withstand all persons who would attempt the contrary; and I will in general observe, keep, and do all that a good and true Counsellor ought to do to bis sovereign Lord."

All Privy Counsellors are styled Right Honourable, and it is felony in any f the King's servants or houshold to conspire to take away the life of a Privy Counsellor, even though nothing should be done upon it; and also for any person to unlawfully attempt to kill, or who shall unlawfully assault and strike or wound any Privy Counsellor in the execution of his office, and being convicted, shall suffer death.

The present Privy Council of Ireland is composed of the following Persons.

List of Officers and Servants of the Right Honourable the HOUSE of LORDS.

N. B. The Officers and Servants formerly had no settled Salary, but every Session of Parliament the Lords voted certain sums of recompense for their attendance and trouble; but, by the King's Letter, the following Salaries were placed on the Civil List Establishment from 25th March, 1790, (Letter dated 5th Nov. 1789.) They are also, by the Custom of Parliament, entitled to certain Fees on sundry occasions.

The Executive Power is divided into three Grand Departments:

- I. The Ecclefiastical Department.
- II. The Civil Department.
- III. The Military Department.

ECCLESIASTICAL DEPARTMENT.

This kingdom is divided ecclefiastically, as well as civilly, into sour provinces: An Archbishop presides over each. The seven Bishops of the northern province are suffragans to the Archbishop of Armagh, who is Lord Primate and metropolitan of all Ireland. The Archbishop of Dublin is Lord Primate of Ireland, and has three suffragan Bishops in the eastern province. The southern province with its sive suffragans is under the jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Cashel, Lord Primate of Munster; and the Archbishop of Tuam, Lord Primate of Connaught, presides over the three bishops of the western province.

The number of Deaneries in this kingdom is thirty-three, and of Archdeaconries thirty-four.

PROVINCE OF ARMAGH.

1. Archbishoprick of Armagh.

This see was founded by St Patrick about the middle of the fifth century, and was made an Archbishoprick in the year 1152. It extends into five counties, 59 miles from N. to S. varying in breadth from 10 to 25.

The CHAPTER confifts of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treafurer, Archdeacon, and 4 Prebendaries, with 8 Vicars-choral.

PATRONAGE. The Crown has the presentation to 13 parishes, the Lord Primate to 60, the University to 5, and the Chapters of Christ-church and St. Patrick, Dublin, to 3; the remainder have lay patrons.

In the city of Armagh, which is 35 miles distant from the extremity of the diocese, there is a cathedral with a good choir; and a very handsome archiepiscopal palace has been erected by the late Lord Primate.

2. Bishoprick of Dromore.

The foundation of this diocese is ascribed to St. Colman, in the 6th century. It is extremely compact, and the smallest in extent of any bishoprick in the kingdom which is not annexed to another see; extending only 28 miles from N. to S. and 17 from E. to W. yet it comprehends some part of three counties.

The CHAPTER of this diocese, which was new modeled and established, with some peculiar privileges, by patent of James I. is composed of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, Archives deacon and one Prebendary.

PATRONAGE. The Deanery alone is in the gift of the Crown, one parish is in the Lord Primate, 23 in the Bishop of Dromore, and 2 are in laymen.

3. and 4. Bishopricks of Down and Connor.

These bishopricks were both sounded in the 5th century, and united in the year 1454. The greatest length of Down is 41 miles from N. E. to S. W. and the greatest breadth 22. Connor extends in length N. and S. 45 miles, and in breadth 24. The extent of the united sees, from the north of Antrim to the southmost point of Down, is 70 miles.

There is part of one parish of the diocese of Down in the county of Antrim, the remainder are all in the county of Down. The see of Connor lies chiefly in Antrim, but includes also a part of Down and Londonderry.

The CHAPTER of these sees was also regulated by patent of James I. That of Down consists of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Archdeacon, and two Prebendaries. The same dignitaries are in Connor, with 4 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE of both fees. Six parishes in each diocese; 12 in the whole, including the two Deaneries, are in the gift of the Crown, 3 are in the Lord Primate, viz. 2 in Down and 1 in Connor. In the Bistrop are 53, viz. 15 in Down and 38 in Connor; and in lay hands, there are 14 in Down and 22 in Connor.

5. Bishoprick of Derry.

This fee was constituted in the year 1158: Its greatest length is 47, and its greatest breadth 43 miles, extending into four counties.

The CHAPTER confifts only of a Dean, an Archdeacon, and 3 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE. That of the Crown includes 3 parishes, which are the corps of the Deanery; that of the Bishop 33, the University of Dublin 3, and lay patrons present to 9.

6. Bishoprick of Raphoe.

It is not precifely known at what time this fee was founded, but it must have been prior to the tenth century, since Bishops of Raphoe are mentioned in the ninth. This diocese comprises the greater part of Donegal, being 44 miles in length from N. to S. and 32 in breadth.

The Dean, the Archdeacon, and 4 Prebendaries, compose the

The Patronage of 6 parishes, which form the corps of the Deanery, is in the Crown, of 15 others in the Bishop, of 7 in the University of Dublin, and of 3 in lay hands.

7. Bishoprick of Clogher.

The fee of Clogher was founded by St. Patrick about the fametime as Armagh. It stretches 60 miles from N. W. to S. E. by a breadth of 20, and comprises some portion of five several counties.

The CHAPTER of Clogher confifts of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Archdeacon, and 5 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE. The Crown presents to 1 parish, the Bishop to 33, the University to 4, and lay patrons to 2.

8. Bishofrick of Kilmore.

This fee was founded in the 13th century, and in the 15th changed its ancient name of Brefny into that of Kilmore It lies parallel to and fouth of Clogher, extending 58 miles in length, and from 10 to 20 in breadth, through four counties.

There are a Dean and an Archdeacon, but no Chapter, in this diocese.

PATRONAGE. Three parishes, which are consolidated in the Deanery, are in the Crown; 33 in the Bishop, 1 in the University, and 2 in lay patrons.

9. Bishoprick of Ardagh.

The see of Ardagh was sounded in the middle of the 5th century. In 1658 it was united to the Bishoprick of Kilmore, but in 1692 Dr. Ulysses Burgh was appointed to it separately. Upon his death, in the same year, it was re-united to Kilmore, and continued so till Doctor Hort was promoted from those sees to the Archbishoprick of Tuam in 1741, when they were again separated, and Ardagh was annexed to the Archbishoprick; which union has continued ever since, though the diocese of Elphin intervenes between them. It extends into 6 counties, and yet it is a very small diocese; the greatest length from N. to S. being 42 miles, and the breadth, which is in some places but 4, never exceeding 14.

In this diocese there are a Dean and Archdeacon, but no CHAPTER nor episcopal residence; neither can the church of Ardagh be called a cathedral.

The PATRONAGE of I parish belongs to the Crown; the Bishop presents to 30, and a lay patron to 6.

10. Bishoprick of Meath*.

Several small bishopricks gradually coalesced into one see, which received the name of Meath, at the end of the 12th century; and in 1568 the bishoprick of Clonmacnois was incorporated with it by act of parliament. It extends from the sea to the Shannon, over part of six counties; in length from E. to W. 63 miles, and in breadth about 20, at a medium.

There is no cathedral in this diocese, neither is there a Charter or even a Dean of Meath. The only dignities are the Deanery of Clonmacnoise, and the Archdeaconry of Meath. The want of a Chapter is supplied by a Synod, of which every Incumbent is a member, and the Archdeacon president. Their proceedings are authenticated by a common feal.

PATRONAGE. The Crown presents to 81 parishes, the Lord Primate to 2, the Bishop to 69 and the Deanery, and 37 are in lay patronage.

THE PROVINCE OF DUBLIN contains FIVE SEES under FOUR PRELATES.

1. Dublin.

The first mention we find of this see is in the 7th century. In the year 1152 it was erected into an archbishoprick; and in 1214 the bishoprick of Glandelough, which had been founded in the 6th century, was incorporated with Dublin.

* The bishop of Meath has precedence of all other bishops.

It is 50 miles in length from N. to S. and 36 in the greatest breadth, containing the whole county of Dublin, the most of Wicklow, and part of two others.

The CHAPTER of St. Patrick's, Dublin, confifts of the Dean, (who is elective by the Archbishop and Chapter) the Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, 2 Archdeacons, of Dublin and of Glandelough, and 19 Prebendaries.

The members of the collegiate Chapter of Christ Church are the Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, the Archdeacon of Dublin, and 3 Prebendaries. This Deanery is annexed to the Bishoprick of Kildare.

The PATRONAGE of the diocese is thus divided: The Crown presents to 15 parishes, the Archbishop to 144; the Lord Chancellor and the three chief judges, in conjunction with his grace, to 2; the Chapter of Christ Church, or its members separately, to 23; the Chapter of St. Patrick, and its members, to 9; and lay patrons to 16 parishes.

2. Kildare.

The Bishoprick of Kildare was founded about the end of the 5th century. Its greatest length from E. to W. does not exceed 36 miles, nor its greatest breadth 23. This see comprehends part of three counties.

In the CHAPTER of this diocese there are a Dean, Precenter, Chancellor, Treasurer, Archdeacon, 4 Prebendaries, and 4 Minor PATRONAGE. The Crown is patron of 27, the Bishop 30, and different laymen of 24 parishes.

3. Ferns, and 4. Leighlin. These bishopricks were united in the year 1600.

Ferns was founded in 598, and extends about 46 miles in length from N. to S. and 18 in breadth, comprising the whole county of Weyford, and a small part of Wickley.

of Wexford and a small part of Wicklow.

Leighlin was established in 632. It comprehends the entire county of Carlow, a considerable part of the Queen's County, and extends into Wicklow and Kilkenny. This diocese is of a very irregular form; in some places but 6, and in none above 13 miles broad, though it is 39 miles long from N. to S.

The union extends 62 by 25 miles.

The CHAPTER of Ferns confifts of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer, Archdeacon, and 10 Prebendaries.

The CHAPTER of Leighlin is composed of the same dignitaries, with only 4 Prebendaries.

The PATRONAGE of the 232 parishes, in this union, stands' thus. The Crown presents to 3 in Ferns and 15 in Leighlin; the Bishop to 115 in Ferns, and 56 in Leighlin; the University of Dublin to 1 in Leighlin; and lay patrons to 25 in Ferns, and in N 2.

This fee, which was originally establish

This fee, which was originally established at Saigair, and afterwards at Aghavoe, was sounded very early in the 5th century: It includes almost the whole of Kilkenny, a good part of the Queen's County, and some of the King's County, extending 36 miles in length from N. to S. and 23 in breadth.

The CHAPTER is formed by the Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer and Archdeacon, with 7 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE. In the Crown are 26 parishes, 76 in the Bishop, 4 in the Dean or Chapter, and 30 in lay patrons.

The Province of Cashel comprehends ELEVEN SEES, under the Archeishop and Five suffragans.

1. Caffel, and 2. Emly.

The see of Cashel was either founded or restored at the begin, ming of the 10th century; and was made an Archbishoprick in 1152. Emly, which was founded in the 5th century, is said to have been at first an Archbishoprick also. They were united in 1568.

The Archbishoprick is almost confined to the county of Tipperary, branching a very little way into Kilkenny and Limerick, and is 28 miles in length, and 23 in breadth. Emly, which is 32 miles long from N. to S. and about 12 broad, comprises a part of Tipperary, and a larger scope in Limerick. The united sees are very compact, extending 32 miles one way, and 30 the other.

The CHAPTER of Cashel consists of a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer and Archdeacon, with 4 Prebendaries. The CHAPTER of Emly contains the like number of dignities and prebends, the Treasurership excepted

3 & A. Waterford and Lismore.

These sees were united in the year 1536. The Bishoprick of Lismore had been sounded in the beginning of the 7th century, but that of Waterford was not established till the 11th, when the Ostmen settled on the Irish coast. This very small diocese is confined to the eastern part of the country of Waterford, and does not extend above 10 miles in length and 7 in breadth; but the diocese of Lismore is 30 miles long and about 20 broad, including the greatest part of Waterford country and a considerable portion of Tipperary. The union stretches in length 39 miles from E. to W. and 29 in breadth.

The CHAPTER of Waterford confifts only of the Dean, Precentor, Chancellor and Treasurer, for there are no Prebendaries, and the Archdeacon has not a vote. But in Lismore the Archdeacon is a member of the Chapter with the 4 other dignitaries and 10 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE. In Waterford 12 parishes are in the gift of the Crown, and 16 in that of the Bishop. In Lismore the Crown presents to 12, the Bishop to 27, and lay patrons to 30. The remainder are wholly impropriate.

5. Cloyne.

The Bishoprick of Cloyne was founded in the 6th century. It was united to Cork for upwards of two hundred years; but it has now continued separate above a century, It lies entirely within the county of Cork, extending E, and W. near 50 miles in length by a breadth of 23.

The CHAPTER is very full, being composed of a Dean, Chan-

In the PATRONAGE of the Crown there are 10 parishes, in the Bishop's 106, in lay patrons 7; 2 are in dispute, and 11 are wholly impropriate. The wardenship of the church of Youghal, which is collegiate, is perpetually united to the bishoprick.

6 & 7. Cork and Rofs.

The foundation of the Bishoprick of Cork is placed in the 7th century; that of Ross is unknown. They were united by Queen Elizabeth in 1586; are both contained in the county of Cork, and are partly intermixed. The diocese of Cork is 58 miles long from E. to W. and about 13 broad. The length of the principal part of Ross is 25 miles from E. to W. and the breadth 6; the detached part of it, in the mountains of Bear and Bantry, is about the same length, but not more than 4 miles broad. The whole union is about 65 by 17.

The CHAPTERS of these dioceses consist each of a Dean, a Precentor, a Chancellor, a Treasurer and an Archdeacon; there are besides 12 Prebendaries in Cork, and 5 in Ross.

The PATRONAGE of these united sees is thus distributed. The Crown presents to 7 in Cork and 1 in Ross; the Bishop to 66 in the former and 28 in the latter; lay patrons to 14 in the two, 11 being wholly impropriate.

8 & 9. Limerick, Ardfert and Aghadoe.

The Bishoprick of Limerick was united in 1663 to those of Ardsert and Aghadoe, which had long been so incorporated as to form but one diocese. Ardsert or Ardart was established in the 5th century, and Limerick before the 13th. The latter extends in length from E. to W. 27 miles in the county of Limerick, and 17 in breadth, taking in a small part of Clare. The Bishoprick of Ardsert, which includes the whole county of Kerry, and a portion of Cork, is 52 miles long from N. to S. and 48 broad. There are 71 miles from one extremity of the union to the other.

The CHAPTER of Limerick is complete, having the 5 greater dignities and 9 prebends. In that of Ardfert there are no prebends; but the Archdeacon of Aghadoe has a stall. This dignity, and the ruined walls of a church at Aghadoe, with a round tower, are all the memorials of the Bishoprick that now remain.

PATRONAGE. The Crown presents to 8 parishes in Limerick, and to 19 in Ardsert; and the Bishop to 46 in the former and 38 in the latter; 13 parishes in Limerick depend on the Chapter, and 52 in both upon lay parons.

10 & 11. Killaloe and Kilfenora.

The diocese of Killaloe was sounded early in the 5th century; in the 12th it was incorporated with the ancient Bishoprick of Roscrea, sounded in 620; and in the year 1752 the see of Kilfenora, which had been established about the 12th century, was united to it; and though very small in extent and value, had continued separate till after the Restoration, when it was first annexed to the Archbishoprick of Tuam.—That union continued 81 years till 1741, when Ardagh being annexed to Tuam, this Bishoprick was given in commendam to the Bishop of Clonsert.

The diocese of Killaloe stretches 80 miles in length, through the counties of Clare and Tipperary into the King's County, and includes also a small part of the Queen's County, Galway and Limerick It varies in breadth from 7 to 25 miles. Kilsenora is confined to the baronies of Burrin and Corcomroe, and extends only 18 miles by 9.

In the CHAPTER of each diocese there are stalls for a Dean, Precentor, Chancellor, Treasurer and Archdeacon; and in that of Killaloe for 5 Prebendaries.

Of the PATRONAGE of these dioceses it is difficult to form an abstract, the rectories being mostly separate from the vicarages, and many of them in lay patronage. Thus multiplied in number, to of them are in the gift of the Crown; 131 in the Bishop, and 36 in lay patrons: These 177 rectories and vicarages are united and condensed, if the expression may be allowed, into 50 benefices.

The Province of Tuam comprises six Dioceses, over which the Archbishop and three Suffragans preside.

I. Tuam.

This Eishoprick was established early in the 6th century, and is considerably the largest in the kingdom, extending over a great part of the counties of Galway and Mayo, and including a part of Roscommon. It is upwards of 60 miles long and 50 broad. With this see the Bishoprick of Ardagh has been held in commendam by the present Archbishop and his sour predecessors.

The CHAPTER confifts of a Dean, a Provost, an Archdeacon,

and 8 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE. The Deanery alone is in the Crown, 79 parishes are in the Bishop's gift, and 10 are united to the wardenship of Galway. The constitution of that large and ancient collegiate church

2 & 3 Clonfert and Kilmacduagh.

The former of these sees was founded near the close of the 6th century, and the latter in the beginning of the 7th. They were united in 1602. Clonsert lies chiefly in the county of Galway; a small part only of Roscommon belongs to it, with a single parish, on the east of the Shannon, in the King's County. The greatest length of this diocese is 20, and the greatest breadth 25 miles. Kilmacduagh is wholly in Galway, and measures 18 by 12 miles. The extent of the union is about 37 by 25.

The members of the CHAPTER of Clonfert are a Dean, an Archdeacon, a Sacrist, and 8 Prebendaries. In that of Kilmac-duagh there are a Dean, a Provost, a Chancellor, an Archdeacon and 2 Prebendaries.

4. Elphin.

This fee dates its origin from St. Patrick in the middle of the 5th century. It comprises the greater part of the county of Roscommon, a large scope in Sligo and Galway, and a very little in Mayo. In length, from N. to S. it extends 63 miles, but in breadth it varies from 2 to 24.

The CHAPTER consists of a Dean, Precentor, Archdeacon and 8 Prebendaries.

PATRONAGE The Crown prefents to 2 parishes, the Bishop to 72, and a lay patron to 1.

5 & 6. Killalla and Achonry.

The Bishoprick of Killalla was sounded about the same time as Elphin, and in the following century the see of Achonry was established. They both extend into the counties of Mayo and Sligo; the river Moy and the Ox Mountains forming the boundary between them. The greatest length of Killalla is from E. to W. 45 miles by a breadth of 21 Achonry stretches from N. E. to S. W. 28 miles, and is 21 broad. The united sees measure E. and W. 55 miles, and from N. to S. 21.

The CHAPTER of Killalla is composed of a Dean, Precentor and Archdeacon, with 5 Prebendaries. In that of Achonry there are the same dignities, with only 3 prebends.

PATRONAGE The Crown presents to 2 parishes, which are the corps of the respective deaneries in each of these dioceses; the ether 48 parishes are in the gift of the Bishop.

It appears by the foregoing table, that there are in the whole kingdom 2436 parishes, which form at prefent of glebe. The table likewife shews how large a proportion of the tythes are impropriate, or the property of lay-1120 benefices, with cure of Souls; exclusive of 111 sinceures in the several dioceses. It appears also, that the churches amount to roor: and the glebe-houses to 354. Of the 1120 benefices there are only 366 destitute men. In the diocese of Elphin they are in the ratio of two to three, and taking the whole kingdom as 1 to 3 58, which is two-fevenths of the whole.

B. The dioceses are placed in each province according to their respective size; and the figures prefixed to them point out their comparative extent with respect to the whole number.

* Lough Neagh contains 58,200 acres, not included in any diocefe, which being added makes 12,001,200 acres. C.

The privileges of the Prelates and dignified Clergy are many.

An Archbishop has a superintendency over the Bishops who are his suffragans, and no Bishop can be consecrated but by an Archbishop, assisted by other Bishops—He takes precedency over all temporal Lords—He can visit his own province, and convene a provincial Synod.

A Bishop has the superintendency over his diocese only, and can unsecrate alone Priests and Deacons—He takes precedency next ther Viscounts, and before Barons, and visits his own diocese once in every year.

In all Cathedral and Collegiate Churches there is a Dean who is the head of the Canons or Prebendaries, and makes a Chapter with the head are Canonici Astua, and on the vacancy of a Bishopric, the Dean and Chapter receive the King's writ of Conge d'Elire or permission.

mission to elect a Bishop, who must be the person mentioned in the King's Letter of recommendation, (that accompanies the writ,) unless they can sufficiently shew cause to the contrary. This was formerly the usage, but now Archbishops and Bishops are appointed or translated by the King's patent.

The Archdeacons are so called from their charge over the Dez.

To the Archbishops, Bishops and Archdeacons belong sundry Courts, called general Spiritual Courts—All other Courts are held by the King's authority, and writs run in his name; but Ecclesiasical Courts are not deemed the King's Courts, for the writs issue in the Bishop's name—Teste the Bishop. And as in temporal Court there are several Judges, each Bishop is sole Judge in his own Court; and he may depute his authority to another, and appoint a Chancellor, Commissiary, Register, &c. which none of the Secular Judges can do. In trials of Bastardy or Heresy the certificate is sufficient; and if a Clergyman kills his Bishop or Ordinary, it is held as parricide, and is petty treason.

The privileges of the Clergy in general are thefe:

A Clergyman cannot be compelled to serve on a jury, nor to appear at Courts Leet, nor be chosen to a temporal office; during his attendance on Divine Service he is privileged from arrests in Civil Suits. In cases of Felony he may have the benefit of his Clergy, without being branded in the hand, and may likewise have it more than once.

The Ecclesiastical Courts take cognizance, and give sentence on Ordinations, institution of Clerks to Benefices, celebration of Divine Service, and all that relate to Churches, Matrimonial Rights, Divorces, Bastardy, Probate and Administration of Wills, Simony, Blasphemy, Adulteries, Incests, Fornications, and Defamation.

The feveral Courts now in Ireland are thefe:

DEPARTMENT II.

The Civil Department.

The Civil Department comprizes two grand Branches.

I. LAW.

II. REVENUE.

I. The Law Branch of the Civil Department.

The Law Branch protects public and private Rights, and punishes public and private Wrongs.

For this Purpose it hath fundry Courts, Officers, Persons and Offices.

Law also comprizes Equity; and the Courts are either general, that comprehend the whole Kingdom; or particular, that affect particular Persons and Places.

GENERAL LAW COURTS.

The High Court of CHANCERY.

The Courts of Justice observe nothing but the strict Letter of the Lazo.

The Court of Chancery is a Court of Mercy, in which Causes are tried, not according to the strictness of the Law, but according to the Rules of Equity.

The Chancery has two Courts in one. The equitable Part being instituted for the Relief of the Subject, against Cheats, Breaches of Trust, and unfortunate Accidents; to temper the O 2

Rigour of the Law, and refcue Men from Oppression. In the other, all Patents, various Commissions, Deeds between Parties, touching Lands and Estates, Treaties with foreign Princes, &c. are sealed and inrolled. Out of it issue Writs to convene the Parliament. In one Part the Proceedings were formerly in Latin, when the Court proceeded by the known Laws and Customs of the Land, for which Part there are Officers called Curstors, but now all is done in English. And the Equity Proceedings go by English Bill, for which there are fix Clerks.

The Form of Pleading in this Court is by Petition, Bill, Examination of Witnesses and Subpana, by which the defendant summoned to appear and answer the Complainants' Bill; upon neglecting thereof there issues an Attachment to compel him. This not being obeyed there issues an Attachment with a Proclamation: And if the Defendant still continues contumacious, the Court will award against him a Proclamation of Rebellion, upon which he is fent Prisoner.

In this Court the Lord High Chancellor is the fole Judge. He is the Chief Magistrate in the Kingdom. He is appointed by Patent, and holds his Office durante bene Placito, i. e. During the King's Pleasure. When he appears in Public the Mace and Great Seal go constantly with him: and he is said, from his Equity, to be the Keeper of the King's Conscience.

Other Courts fit only in Term Time, out of which they have no Power to act as Courts of Justice, unless by special Commission; but the Court of Chancery is always open, so that if a Man is wrongfully imprisoned during a Vacation, the Lord Chancellor may grant his Writ of Habeas Corpus, and do him Justice according to Law.

Although the Lord Chancellor is the fole Judge, yet he has five affiftants, called Masters of the Rolls, and Masters in Chancery, who have Sallaries, Fees, and Robe Money out of the Exchequer, These were all anciently Doctors of the Civil Law, and their Business was originally to inform the Lord Chancellor of the equitable Part of the Civil Law.

The first of these Officers is called Master of the Rolls, as having the Custody of all Charters, Patents, Commissions, Deeds, and Recognizances, which being made into Rolls of Parchment gave occasion for that Name. Subordinate to him are the Custodes Rotustorum, or Keepers of the Rolls of the several Counties; and he has the Gift of the Six Clerks Office, the Examiners Office, the Clerk of the Petty Bag, and the Clerks of the Roll, or Keeper of the Record in the Birmingham Tower—A Secretary, Register and Usher.

The Masters in Chancery take affidavits or depositions upon Oath or any other Matter to which an Oath is required by the Rules of the Court. Also to them is referred the Examination of Account depending in this Court, of which they make their Report in write

The above Officers, with some others, are commissioned to hear and determine Causes in the absence or at the Death of the Lord Chancellor, that the Course of Justice may not be interrupted.

Besides the ordinary Masters in Chancery, there are Masters Extraordinary, and Commissioners of Affidavits, to do their Business in the country Parts of the Kingdom

The Officers next in degree to the Masters in Chancery are the Six Clerks in Chancery, whose Duty is to enroll all Patents, Commissions, Licenses, Pardons, and other Instruments that pass the Great Seal, and have Clerks under them.

The other Officers of this Court are,

The Clerk of the Crown, who by himself or Deputy is always to attend the Lord Chancellor, for special Matters of State. He makes out all Writs for the Election of Members of Parliament, Commissions for distributing Justice, general and special Pardons.

The Prothonatory, or Proto-Notary, i. e. the first Notary. [This Office subsists in Great-Britain, and expedites Commissions for Embassies. But as no Embassies are sent from Ireland the Office is dormant.]

The Register, whose Office is generally executed by Deputies, giving constant Attendance in Court, and taking short Notes, called Minutes, which they afterwards draw out at length into Orders, containing the Opinion of the Court in the Matter debated. It is their Duty also to ingross, file and keep the Decrees, Orders and Injunctions issuing out of this Court.

The Examiners examine Witnesses upon Oath, according to the Interrogatories delivered to them to examine the Parties thereupon; and put their Answers and Depositions into writing.

A Clerk, and a Comptroller of the Hanaper, vulgarly called the Hamper. The Clerk's Office is to receive all Money due to the King for the Seals of Charters, Patents, Commissions and Writs. He attends daily in Term Time, and at all Times of sealing, with leather Bags, in which are put all sealed Patents, Charters, kc. and those Bags are delivered to the Comptroller of the Hanaper, who also receives all Returns of Writs of Members of Parliament when they are elected. In Ireland these two Offices are united, and joined to the Clerk of the Crown. A Curfitor, who makes out original Writs.

A Clerk of the Alienation Office, where Fines are fet, and Monies received upon Writs of Covenant for alienating any Estate in the Kingdom, as due to the King for his Licence or Consent.

Commissioners of Bankruptcy, who are twenty-five in Number, and have Officers under them.

THE COURT OF KING'S BENCH.

This (next to the House of Lords in Parliament) is the highest Court in Ireland at Common Law. The king anciently fitting in person in this Court, and now virtually by his Judges, it is called the King's Bench. Here the Pleas that are between the King and the Subject are tried and judged. All Treasons, Felonies, Breach of the Peace and Mifgovernment are commonly brought before this Court; as are also all Errors of the Judges and Magistrates in Ireland in their Judgment and Proceedings, not only in the Pleas of the Crown, but in all other Pleas (the Exchequer excepted). In this Court all Lawyers who have been called to the Bar are allowed to plead and practife. To this Court belong four Judges, who hold their Office by Patent, quandiu se bene gesserint, i. e. as long as they behave themselves well; so that they are not to be displaced until some Misconduct has been fully proved; and this renders their Judgment responsible to the Law only, and not to the Crown.

There are herein a Number of Officers, the Names of which hew their respective Duties.

Council to the Office, Arthur Chichester Macartney, Esq;

Filazer, Henry Doyle, Efq.:
His Deputy, Browne.

Register, William Hunter, Esq;

His Clerks, Thomas Browne. John O'Malley.

2. Second, (or Lord Treasurer's) Remembrancer, Right Hon. Richard, Lord Donoughmore, 55l. 2s. 3d.

His Deputy,

Richard Waller, Efq;
Daniel Beere.
Richard Beere.

Secondaries,

Abraham Augustus Nun. Richard Waller.

N. B. In the Chief Remembrancer's Office is entered the State of all Accounts (except those of the Sheriffs and Bailiffs); all Securities for the faithful exercising of Offices are taken; and all Proceedings thereupon are made. In short, from thence iffue forthall Proceedings to cause all Accountants to come in and account, and all Proceedings on the Equity Side of the Exchequer are in this Office.

In the Second Remembrancer's Office, Process is made against all Sheriffs and Receivers for their Accounts.

3. Clerk of the Pipe, Humphrey Butler, Efq; 306l. 12s.

His Deputy, John Battley, Eiq;

Into this Office are brought all Accounts which pass the Remembrancer's Office, all Accounts of Sheriffs are made up by him, and he gives them (as he does other Accountants) their Quietus est. He also makes Leases of the King's Lands, and lands taken by Extent, by a Warrant from the High Treasurer (or the Executors of that Office.)

4. Comptrolers of the Pipe, Edward Tighe, Esq; George William Tighe. $4531. 106.

Deputies, Thomas Browne.

He writes in his Roll all that is drawn down from the Remembrancer's Office, into the great Roll of the Pipe; and makes Process for the Recovery of any Debt due to the Crown by a Writ called the Summons of the Pipe.

5. Clerk of the Pleas, Right Hon. Earl of Clonmell.

His Deputies, Scharles Farran, Efq;
Daniel Nihil, Efq;

In this Office all the Officers of the Exchequer, and other privileged Persons, such as Debtors to the King, &c. have the privileg to plead and be impleaded in all Matters at Common Law. The Reason of this Privilege, as to Officers, is that they shall not be drawn out of their own Court where their Attendance is required And no person, not actually belonging to the Court, can here implead any other Person but under the Law Fiction, that he is the King's Debtor, and that the Sum for which he sues being withheld from him, renders him the less able to pay the King's Debt.

6. Foreign Apposer, John Pollock, Esq; 531. 158.

Clerk of the Estreats, Nicholas Morrison, Esq; 33, York-street He receives every Term the Estreats (or Extracts) out of the second Remembrancer's Office; and writes them out to be levied for the King; he also makes Schedules for Sums that are to be discharged.

SECTION I.

THE ARMY.

Ireland provides for twenty thousand Men; and on the first Augmentation from twelve thousand Men, (the old Establishment) it was stipulated that there should be always left in Ireland, for the Defence of the Country, the original Number of Troops, viz. the twelve thousand—except in Cases of actual Invasion of Britain, or a Rebelhon. A farther Augmentation of the Establishment took place on Account of the War, but from the many Exigencies of the State, the greatest Part of the Regular Forces have been drawn but of the Kingdom, and many new Regiments have been raised; but fuch is the Fluctuation of the Army that no regular Lists can be given. that may subsist even a Month in its present State.

SECTION II.

GARRISONS AND BARRACKS.

The Garrisons of Ireland are composed of different Regiments and Detachments of the Army, which vary every Year; but the Towns and Forts have permanent Governors and Officers, which at present are :-

In our publication for the last year we gave a list of the Militia Establishment of this Kingdom: in that for this year we intended republishing it in a more perfect form; but by a clause in an act of the last session, every Almanack containing such list is made subject to a stamp duty of ten shillings, which prevents us from fulfilling that intention, or of gratifying the public by its infertion.

On this circumstance we feel it right to observe, that these annual publications in Great Britain have no restraint imposed on them, which tends to withit it a knowledge of the strength of the country, or the elevated characters who compose it.]

ECTION VII.

THE COMPANY OF BATTLE-AXE GUARDS.

These Guards resemble the Company called in England Yeomen of the Guard, instituted by Henry VII. to be his Body Guard in the Palace, and a Party of them to attend his Person when he goes out in State. They wait in the Castle by turns, with Partizans in their Hands, and long Swords by their Sides. Their Habit is of Scarlet Cloth, made in the particular Shape in Fashion when they were first instituted, guarded with black Velvet and Gold Lace, with Badges before and behind; and instead of Hats they wear black Velvet Caps, with flat Crowns and broad horizontal Brims, with a Band of Rib. bons in Rofes. Their Number is fifty, of whom are in waiting in their turns, except on State Days, when they all artend.

Captain of the Company Lt Col. William Richardson Capt. Philip Majoribanks. Lieutenants 2 Capt. Hamilton Stewart.

SECTION VIII.

THE ADMIRALTY.

This department is very extensive in Britain, and occupies a large Space in the British Calendar. In Ireland, indeed, it is greatly contracted; for as yet we have no Royal Fleet, and the Officers in this Class are only these:

This Library is of general Utility, by procuring those great and expensive works which, though many have occasion to confult, few can allow themselves to purchase, and also the Memoirs and Transactions of the Philosophic Societies both foreign and domestic, with the best periodical Publications, and Books of reference on every Subject, with other works which appear to have considerable merit in any Branch of Science.

The Society is possessed of Books purchased and paid for, amounting to upwards of £600, and upwards of Five hundred Volumes of Books presented to the Society as Donations.

Subscribers paying two Guineas at admission and one Guinea a year, may have access from eleven in the morning 'till four in the afternoon, and from seven in the evening 'till ten at night, Sundays excepted, when the Library does not open 'till two in the afternoon. The direction is in a Committee of twenty-one chosen annually in February out of the Subscribers.

Treasurer, William Cope, Etq. Shire 's-court. Librarian and Sec. Johna Edkins, Efq. Aubiter-Brett.

SECTION V. The PROTESTANT CHARTER SCHOOLS.

For the purpose of educating Children of poor Roman Catholic parents, or such as if neglected would be bred Roman Catholics, established by Charter, and supported by tonsiderable grants from Parliament every session. There are thirty-seven Schools in different parts of this kingdom, wherein 1735 Children are maintained and educated by the thablishment, though at present there are not quite 1500; and there are four provincial Nurseries for such as are too young to enter the Schools, and those have about three hundred Children.

When those Boys and Girls attain fourteen years they are apprenticed into Protestant Families, and when any of them marries a Protestant (with the approbation of the Committee, and a certificate that they have duly served their apprehencessis) a portion of five person is given.

THE SEMINARY OF CARLOW

BOOK VI.

The City of Dublin,

(THE METROPOLIS OF IRELAND)

Has the fame establishments, in a leffer extent, as the Kingdom at large, a due consideration of which comprehends the following divisions:

- 1. The Lord Mayor and Board of Aldermen, Sheriffs and Sheriff's Peers and Representatives of the several Guilds of the City are the Common Council of the City, and with the Court of D'Arrien Hundreds,* consisting of the Freemen of the City, form a Corporate Legislative Body, entitled The Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Commons and Citizens of the City of Dublin, in Common Council assembled.
  - 2. The Ecclesiastical Department,
  - 3. The Civil Department,
  - 4. The Military Department,
  - 5. The Trading and Commercial Establishments,
  - 6. The Charitable Institutions.

Each of which Divisions bath several Branches

* In this Court all acts of the day are to be read aloud. There every Citizen has a right to object to any act he may apprehend erroneous or injurious, and, if seconded, the act becomes invalid, unless on a general poll to receive the sanction of the majority of the Citizens.
